Chris Loder

An automation enthusiast to the core, Chris Loder is an automation developer leading the automation framework team at InGenius Software in Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. Chris' passion to automate has carried him through two decades of automation and automation framework development. He has worked with all the greats-Visual Test, WinRunner, Quick Test Pro, Rational Functional Tester, and Selenium-and is currently focusing on starting a new framework at InGenius. At his previous employer Chris filed a patent for work done on the automation framework built there and loves to talk about it-and all things automation.
